Decreased level of plasma total antioxidant status in newly diagnosed diabetic patients: an effect of hyperglycemia? To study the plasma total antioxidant status (TAS) and oxidative status in newly diagnosed type 2 diabetes and to investigate the relationship of TAS with glycemic control and lipid profile. A total of 80 newly diagnosed type 2 diabetic patients and 20 age- and sex-matched healthy controls were included in the study. Plasma TAS level was measured by colorimetric method, oxidative status was measured by lipid peroxidation, advanced glycation end product formation, protein carbonyl content, and plasma antioxidant enzyme activities were measured by spectrophotometry. Mean plasma TAS level in diabetic patients was 0.923±0.064 mmol/L, which was significantly lower than that in healthy controls (1.087±0.054 mmol/L) (P the author, Rick Steves. Each of us has covered dozens of cities across the globe, and we've spent a good chunk of time getting to know these towns, gathering tips, and dispensing travel advice. In Travel as a Political Act, Rick ponders how travel changes our perspectives and reveals the inherent paradox of our daily lives. "If you want to have a fresh, compassionate view of the world, Rick Steves' book is a must-read. Everything you read and do will give you a different perspective on life and help you create a better one." - Bill Gates Celebrating Pride Month This month, the Archdiocese of Indianapolis celebrates its two-year anniversary as an openly Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgendered (
