In fact, on any given day 30% of UNK students use one of the eight mental health providers at no cost, and 80% of the schools’ students on financial aid don’t pay anything for their mental health care. Instead of charging for their services, the Health Center has setup a scholarship fund so people can take the bus to receive services. Share Love, Inc., is a Wilmington, Delaware-based not-for-profit, 501(c)(3) corporation, dedicated to serving children and families with low-income and no-fee mental health services, shelter, food and basic necessities. What the college and Share Love, Inc., are doing is creating access to services, providing transportation, allowing individuals to get the care they need.
