Manage a team of zombies, killing them with the aim of unlocking all six medleys. This puzzle game is easy to play but hard to master. We're so addicted to it that we spent more than 70 hours to break free of the game's virtual chains. The idea behind this game is to use the zombies as obstacles to kill them for the sake of points. You can shoot a gun at the head of zombies or use a sword and switch weapons while fighting them. One of the Two Players Who Can Actually Play the Game The game doesn't officially support multiplayer, so any other player can't join in the game and the two zombie players will be considered as a single one. But we can choose one of the two zombies to play as the leader, and the other as the follower. How to Play the Game The leader zombie will have seven health points. During every stage the health points can be depleted. The first player who complete the given stage with 1 health points will be the leader and the other zombie will be the follower. The follower is in disadvantageous position: there is no more health point, the follower is always following the leader, and if the leader becomes the zombie then the follower becomes the leader. How to Earn Keys to Unlock New Game Modes? It is difficult to enter the secret levels. If you want to unlock the secret levels, you need to complete the preset stages in all game modes. The secret levels will be unlocked as soon as you finish this milestone. On the other hand, there are a few players who can play the game straight through without waiting for the secret levels. They can unlock the secret levels by using keys. Players can earn keys by completing the preset stages in the game. What Is The Video Format And Size of the Game? The game has been available in different streaming platforms and download hubs. If you're interested, you can find the video streaming and download links at the end of this section. The game is available in two versions (available for Windows and MAC OS). The downloading size of the game is about 700 MB. The playable version of the game has a unique engine that supports high-end graphics, resulting in more realistic virtual bodies. The five zombie players, the musical-like background, and the randomly generated stages make the game worth playing. Download Links (For Windows Users) There are many download links available on the Internet. Most of them belong to YouTube or other streaming platforms

Burning Crusade is the next chapter in The Old World. This is the great and terrible story of the Crusades, from the tragic defeat of the Byzantine Emperor, Alexius, at the hands of the Venetian adventurer, Marco Polo, to the gruesome defeat of the Comnenian Emperor, Isaac I, at the hands of the German ruler, Conrad III, and up until the great naval battle between Venetian and Genoese fleets off the coast of Sicily. Co-developed by the visionary studio, Relic Entertainment, makers of the award-winning Total War series, with a team of talented developers, Burning Crusade is an exciting, epic fantasy adventure. Featuring the most complete and expansive story ever written for The Old World, and released for both PC and Mac platforms, this is a title that not only provides a depth of play that rivals anything that has come before, but also one that combines unprecedented graphical richness with a gameplay experience unlike anything else. Burning Crusade features 4 modes of play (Single Player, Campaign, Instanced PvP, and Co-Op) and 4 game types (Diplomacy, Conquest, Bribe, and Abduction), all at maximum difficulty. Expectations Needed Once you've reached the frog, either by making it, collecting it, or acquiring it via a hat upgrade, you need to face him down. Unfortunately, you won't be able to see him until you've upgraded the hat a bit. That means a less-than-fluid path: either make the hat early, buy the hat late, or acquire the hat in the middle, ensuring that the hat is perfect by the time you have to face the frog. The act of upgrading the hat from 0 to 1 to 2 may seem like a simple matter, but its rewards are actually highly configurable, and there's no perfect time to upgrade, as the hat will retain some value even after completion of all three hat types, so that even if you skip the upgrade, you may end up with a lower-valued hat. At any point during the process, if you acquire the hat, be sure to keep it. Getting Started Finding and capturing a frog costs 2 resources, and offers a net reward of +5 items. The only way to acquire a frog, or to re-acquire a frog after it has been stolen from you, is to find a frog trap, which costs 3 resources, and provides a reward of 4 items. There are six frog traps in total, scattered across the game world. They can be found near the levels, inside boxes, and at various locations in the sewer sections. You are unlikely to need more than one of each type of frog trap, but it never hurts to have extras in case you get unlucky and need to save yourself or someone else in the event of a hard KO. Generally speaking, the more traps you have, the higher the expected value of a single capture, but it is unlikely you'll ever see a single frog. You are better off catching more frogs and then attempting to re-capture them with a hat upgrade than to focus on a single frog. Note that while a frog has a fixed range, it does not have a fixed value. If a frog is in a difficult position, or if you are particularly unlucky, it may turn out to be worth more to you than the average frog value. There are a number of methods that can be used to lower the cost of finding a frog. The most reliable method is to spend resources at the Frog Fractions Gift Shop, which allows you to collect hats in exchange for an increase to your

Part Series: The Lodging Specialty We're a few weeks into the craziness of hunting the pro circuits, and are more than excited to chat with the new management team of Hunting Unlimited, who are hosting hundreds of hunter parties this year! We've asked our friend, Jeremy Turner, VP of Events and Operations to give us an outline of why the specialty lodging industry fits so well with our industry. Lots of great subjects to touch on including the self-contained hotel room, age limited groups, and timber travel. Jeremy: Hunting Unlimited is the premiere event production company for the groups of outdoor enthusiasts that visit our courses. We offer a 5-star experience for the mid-to-higher end hunter. In light of this, it has become imperative for us to engage the specialty lodging industry in order to continue to offer an exceptional experience for our customers. Why do the lodging industry? Jeremy: It's just very difficult for the consumer to work up much enthusiasm for their hunting trip when they aren't camping, or spending the first half of their trip in the back seat of a pickup truck! There's also an opportunity for our customers to experience the outdoor lifestyle from a higher level which helps them get back to the kitchen, and life at home, ready to prepare a nice dinner for their family! Our clients have begun to realize that hunting camp is a great opportunity for bonding and reconnecting with their loved ones. It's also economical for the lodge operator to offer a premium over what they would be receiving for normal overnight guests. Overall, the lodging industry is on the upswing in recent years and there is a wealth of new developments taking place that can be leveraged to the advantage of our customers and the operator. What opportunities/benefits do the lodging industry offer hunting game production facilities? Jeremy: There is a definite synergistic relationship between lodging and fishing. When a customer comes in for a late night dinner, or a packed breakfast, it is very appealing to them to see a great looking room and view of the water that they are not going to be getting at a restaurant. It's a great 'repositioning' for people that are getting out of town and planning their hunting trips. There is also a stronger relationship with fishing. We have found that our customers actively inquire and look for more lodging opportunities when attending

Hunting Unlimited. When visiting lodge operators, we found that they would be interested in fishing the same outfitters, and carrying their designations. Also, the
