The Power is NOW in Your Hands The powerful J K D Wizard shares that he no longer has the capacity to do the work that he used to do. With a vision of a better way, he made the best choice he could at the time. With whatever "Muscle and Power" God put within him, he was ready to take the J K D position of Chief! He was still just as good, better even, but he had to give up his position of Authority. What is this incredible new stance? It's our brand new position of relative power and power to serve your best interest that is the position of Chief. This means that everything that was in the old position of authority, he now delegates, transfers, invests, and transmits to the new position of Chief. Why would God want a man to give up his position of Chief and the power that it holds? Quite simple, God wants to transform you from the inside out, or more accurately from the top down. This is why it is a silent and subtle move on God's part. There is no "big bang" that says "HEY EVERYONE LET'S BE CHIEFS". It is a slow change that is very subtle. Now what does it mean for you? It means that you have access to a new power, a unique ability to do your own thing in your own way. You are not beholden to the old position of Chief (remember that God is the King!). So you can now 💎

What's new:

The snow had been snowing for a week straight now. The towers of the Tower of Halek were buried in snow, and the North-East workshop was even taking the trouble to magically create a giant snowdrift, over half a kilometer long. It covered the courtyard of the North-East tower perfectly, including even the ramparts and rubble from an old demolished wall. In the courtyard an elf standing outside the South entranceway had been complaining about how his feet were freezing. "I'm going inside. The Savants are sure to be long away, and I can warm up on the fire. Did you order the soup, friend?" "No, put that away, we'll give the mercenaries the bonus if they bring us hot soup through the snow!" Exhausted, and a bit tipsy too, he went inside and curled up by the fire. Meanwhile, one of the rocks in the courtyard had shifted slightly to reveal the entrance to a tunnel. A small group of orcs, about six in number, came out of the snow drifts and leaped onto the rocks. They bound up the dwarf with rope, and dragged him inside the dungeon. A black heart-shaped stone was placed over the entrance and barricaded with timber. A wood blade was placed on the timber to insure any intruders weren't able to creep close to the prisoners. The orcs closed the entrance hatch and travelled back into the tunnel. The dwarves had failed to pull themselves free and they gradually succumbed to their brutal treatment. Each day the orc guards came to eat lunch at the South tower, and every day they told the prisoners the same story. "Don't worry, we need you to work all night, tomorrow you may leave to solve the mysteries of Grandmaster Frost." They were taking the prisoners to Grandmaster Frost for some tiny, insignificant task. "Why are you treating us like slaves, we are donkeys, we don't even receive proper food?" "Donkeys can't work. The rocks get in the way of their hooves." "Stop using my head for a fulcrum!" "The rules allow us to damage your heads to keep you working." "Go to hell!" "W
